DISPUTE OVER TAX REFUND TO BREWERS

Controversy Comes to Head When Lower House Refuses to Approve Senate Proposal

DUFF PLAN IS HELD UP

Harrisburg, March 22—(P)—A controversy developed today between the house and senate over the question of a $2,380,000 refund in beer taxes to brewers.

The dispute came to a head when the lower house refused to approve a senate proposal to give brewers and beer distributors a five per cent increase fee on the beer taxes they pay in the next two years.

The action was taken without comment from house GOP leaders. It held up final action on Gov. James H. Duff's $458,000,000 tax program.

"I'll have to take it up with the Republican caucus," said Sen. John M. Walker, Republican senate leader, when asked whether the upper branch would drop its proposal in view of house opposition.

The beer tax was doubled two years ago to provide $23,000,000 in additional state revenue. Gov. James H. Duff's tax plans for next two years continued the boost until 1951. However, the refund will apply both to the temporary and permanent taxes on beer.

It was the only part of Duff's tax program on which the two houses failed to see eye to eye in the final vote.

The house was more agreeable on senate changes to the administration's authority measures. It approved by a voice vote amendments to require the public sales of authority bonds except to state funds. A $175,000,000 limit on the (Turn to Page Seven)

Debate Over Truck Weights in House

Harrisburg, March 22—(P)—The house took up consideration of a proposal to increase legal truck weights today amid a flurry of debate of its effect on automobile insurance rates.

The Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association insisted in a statement that boosting the weight limit for commonly used tractor-trailer trucks "will in no way serve" to increase passenger car insurance rates.

Edward Gogolin, association manager, said the statement was in answer to one by State Insurance Commissioner James F. Malone, Jr., raising that question.

The measure, already amended in committee, would permit tractor-trailer trucks with a gross weight of 48,000 instead of the present 45,000 pounds and tractor-trailer units with tandem axles from 45,000 to 60,000 pounds.

In addition, the measure would step up the penalties for overloading trucks.

Gogolin said Malone's statement that "the moderate weight increases involved in the truck bill might increase insurance rates on passenger cars is without foundation."

16-YEAR-OLD GIRLS VICTIMS OF STABBING

San Diego, Calif., March 22—(P)—"When you mix young emotions with alcohol, you get an explosion,"

An investigator thus described today a wild teen-age drinking party which left two 16-year old girls in serious condition from hundreds of stab wounds.

Salvador Colabelli, 17, was booked on charges of suspicion of attempted murder and assault with a deadly weapon. Two other boys, aged 17 and 16, were held by juvenile authorities for investigation.

The stabbings came as the sordid climax to a drinking-petting party in two adjoining shacks in an abandoned trailer court Saturday night.

Police quoted Colabelli as saying he was in love with one girl and became jealous when the boys traded shacks and girls.

Protestantism Seeks Way To Break Cold War Deadlock

Evansville, Ill., March 22—(P)—American Protestantism today began a search for a way to "break the deadlock between the west and Communism," but which would transcend both social systems.

The 90 delegates of American Protestantism at the meeting of the American section of the World Council of Churches received a proposal that they seek such a break by means of a "responsible society."

Robert S. Bilheimer of New York, general program secretary of the World Council in North America, urged that the American churches sponsor a study that would: 1. Define the rights and duties of a responsible society; 2. Point a way for churches to work in attaining it.

The plan stems from the Am-

Truman's New Be-Kind-To-Congress Strategy Faces A Quick Test In Both Bodies

Washington, March 22—(P)—President Truman's new be-kind-to-congress strategy faces a quick test in both house and senate.

Will the nice things he said about the lawmakers encourage them to go along with the administration on rent control, foreign aid, the labor program?

Southern senators, rebelling against a civil rights program and still elated over their filibuster victory, are wary. Republicans are openly skeptical. Administration leaders are enthusiastic.

The Democratic-controlled 81st congress in recent weeks has given the administration three setbacks: The filibuster defeat, mauling of the rent control bill, refusal to confirm a major nomination of the president's.

But yesterday the president praised the lawmakers and said "basically the congress and the president are working together."

GOP sentiment was summed up by Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) who asked: "Is he kidding?"

But Democrats felt differently. Some said they believed the southerners would lean over backwards for a while in trying to cooperate. Leaders expect to put over such Truman proposals as rent control extension, foreign aid, low rent housing, a revised reciprocal trade program. The labor program is in doubt, and so is a plan to boost taxes on the eastern zone of Germany.

First big test of the let's-be-friends policy will come on rent controls. The present law expires March 31, just nine days from today. Speed is vital.

In the house, the touchy pension bill promised trouble. It would give veterans of both world wars $60 a month at age 65. The administration, which opposes it, says it eventually will cost four billions a year.

Rep. Rankin (D-Miss.) who sponsors the plan contends it will cost far less. And he has insisted on bringing the bill to the house floor over administration objections.

A fight loomed, but even those who are against the bill say it may pass the house in some form, probably trimmed down. Then it goes to the senate, which offers stiffer opposition, it is said.

The house foreign affairs committee waited for a new report on foreign needs today before deciding whether to swing an economy axe at the European recovery program. The committee promised to finish work quickly, although there was talk of reducing the overall total by $200,000,000 because of declines in the cost of food and other supplies.

Some Republicans swung over to the administration's side in its plan to repeal the Taft-Hartley act. Up to now the GOP had presented an almost solid front against the president's labor program.

Other western European nations are expected to join the alliance later.

Last Of Barker Boys Shot To Death By His Frail Wife

Denver, March 22—(P)—"So he was one of Ma Barker's boys. Well, I'll be darned."

That was the reaction of most of the men at the Denargo Grill when they learned that Manager Lloyd "Red" Barker was from one of the southwest's most notorious outlaw families.

Lloyd died Thursday—shot to death as were Kate "Ma" Barker and his brothers, Fred and Arthur. The last of the Barker boys was 51 years old.

His connection with the family wasn't revealed until his frail, nervous widow, Jennie, was arraigned on a murder charge.

When questioned first, District Attorney Clarence Hackenthal said, she admitted shooting her husband with a shotgun as he walked toward their house on suburban Denver. She said she was afraid "he would kill me and my children." She pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity at the arraignment.

Charles Klein, owner of the restaurant at a large produce market, was surprised.

"He never mentioned his family," he said. "He was a good worker, and never got mad."

However, another friend, who wouldn't be quoted by name, said Lloyd "feared he would meet the same kind of death his mother and brothers did."

Lloyd was in Leavenworth Penitentiary when Ma Barker and her boys were robbing banks and kidnapping. He was released in 1938.

After Lloyd was released he went "straight." He was a cook at Ft. Custer, Mich., during the war. He received an honorable discharge and a good conduct ribbon.

Under the act the Authority will finance and construct the school building, then lease it to the West Milford school board for 30 years at an annual rental of $24,110.

Emil L. Greenhaugh, a West Milford taxpayer, filed suit claiming such action was unconstitutional and a subterfuge to allow the district to exceed the debt limit allowed by its assessed valuation.

P. C. Bartman, executive director of the State Authority, indicated the decision will result in a widespread building program.

Two Are Dead In Storms In South

New Orleans, March 22—(P)—Two persons were killed and about 50 were injured by storms which hit scattered areas of Louisiana and Mississippi yesterday.

Tornadoes and windstorms also ripped through parts of northeast Texas and southwest Arkansas, but no casualties were reported.

Hurricane hit Mississippi was a 100-mile stretch between Jackson and Yazoo City.

One of the freak performances of the blow in Mississippi was to pick up an automobile in which three negroes had taken refuge and drop it a quarter of a mile away. The three escaped with minor injuries.

In Louisiana, a tornado injured six persons and wrecked several buildings at Tioga.

A small tornado injured livestock, destroyed a dairy barn, a negro church and several negro dwellings in a community near Texarkana, Texas.

stardam organization meeting of the council last summer. At that meeting the controversial report which condemned both "Communism and Laissez Faire Capitalism," also defined the churches' concept of society. It was this:

"A responsible society is one where freedom is the freedom of men who acknowledge responsibility to justice and public order, and where those who hold political authority or economic power are responsible for their exercise to God and the people whose welfare is affected by it."

The concept is thus double barreled in the eyes of the churches; it calls for an individual to be responsible to his society and for the society to be responsible to him. The implication, then, is that the churches must define what kind of society they have in mind.

Differences Put Aside As Democrats Go To Bat For Extension Of Rent Controls

BERLIN SPLIT DEEPENED BY MONEY BAN

Soviet Announcement Is Viewed As Important Concession By Many Observers

STATEMENT RELEASED

Berlin, March 22—(P)—Qualified observers today viewed as an important concession a Russian statement concerning the west's ban on Russian-sponsored currency of the eastern zone of Germany.

Col. Alexander Jelissarov, acting Russian commandant of Berlin, said last night the western move would "deepen the split in Berlin," but the Soviet military administration did not intend to restrict the use of the east marks now held by western Berliners.

The Soviet announcement was viewed as an important concession for this reason, too:

Apparently Berliners in possession of west marks still can trade them for the cheaper marks to be taken over the line for use in ration-free stores of the Soviet sector. East marks also could pay Soviet zone farmers for food smuggled through the blockade.

The official Soviet Army newspaper, Tagesschau, put this headline on Jelissarov's statement: "No Soviet Countermeasures at the Expense of the Population."

Col. Jelissarov said the western move would hurt the people and the economy of the western zones, but "cannot inflict any serious prejudice" on Soviet zone currency.

In the first official Russian statement on the order, Jelissarov said:

"In an endeavor to help the population of Berlin's western sectors, the Soviet military administration does not intend to carry out any measures restricting the use of the mark of the German Bank of Emission (the east mark) by residents of the western sectors in the Soviet sector of Berlin and in the Soviet occupation zone."

The statement contrasts with actions yesterday of Russian-controlled Berlin.

Survivor of Mountain Plane Crash Saves Other Victims

Four injured survivors of this plane crash in the mountains near Calderwood, Tenn., were removed by helicopter after Stephen A. Walker, left above, a fifth occupant of the plane, fought his way through to civilization to report the crash. The crash victims spent two freezing nights on the windswept mountainside before their rescue. Walker suffered from shock and exposure after a 42-hour trek through the icy, brush-covered mountains. He is shown in a hospital at Maryville, Tenn., where the other victims of the crash were also taken.

Excellent Progress Is Being Made On Celebration Plans

Considerable progress toward mapping plans for Warren's mammoth four-day Independence Day observance this summer was made at a meeting of about forty enthusiastic workers at the control room in the Municipal building last evening.

All committees made encouraging reports demonstrating that no time is being wasted in formulating the preliminary arrangements for the events which as tentatively outlined provide for the following program:

Friday evening—Short band concert; Barber Shop chorus and quartet singing, crowning of the celebration king and queen, followed by round and square dancing in Hickory street in the block between Pennsylvania avenue and Third avenue.

Saturday—Boy Scout pageant in the afternoon, followed by a parade to War Memorial Field where a gigantic variety show will be staged.

Sunday—Flight breakfast, followed by an air show at the Warren airport and a band concert in the evening.

Monday—Parade during the morning hours; drum corps competition at War Memorial Field; elaborate fireworks display at Beaty Field and a "surprise" event to be announced later.

Wendell Lawson and Howard Trusler, co-chairmen for the Friday evening program reported that much of the preliminary work has already been taken care of assuring the community an unusual entertainment.

Details for a contest to select a king and queen are being worked out by a committee with Ken Carlson and Henry Candy as co-chairmen.

Jack Barr and Ben Kinnear, co-chairmen for the parade and drum corps competition on the Fourth, are preparing to mail out literature this week, and those in charge are hopeful of having some of the best musical organizations in the section here to compete in the Class A contest, while it is expected that the prizes to be distributed will attract six or eight drum corps for the Class B competition.

Committees have been named to have charge of the various other events and numerous details such as treasurers, secretaries, legal advisers, publicity, etc.

Arrangements for the raising of funds to finance the program are being worked out by Harry Schmidt and Ray Stein with a committee of twelve other members.

It was decided that the committee will meet again next Monday evening, the place to be announced later by the Co-Chairmen Jack MacDonald and Ed Lowrey.

Continue Deshon As T. B. Hospital

Washington, March 22—(P)—The Veterans Administration today told a Pennsylvania delegation it was decided to keep Deshon Hospital at Butler, Pa., for its own use as a tuberculosis hospital.

Francis H. Dryden, assistant veterans administrator, told the group there is no possibility that the agency will turn the hospital over to the state.

Meeting with Dryden were Pennsylvania State Senators Albert R. Pechar (R) and John H. Dent (D), members of a special committee appointed to ascertain what the Veterans Administration intends to do with the hospital, and Clyde Rankin, deputy adjutant general of Pennsylvania.

Also at the meeting were George L. Bloom, administrative assistant to Senator Edward Martin (R-Pa.) and John A. Hayes, administrative assistant to Senator Francis Myers (D-Pa.).

Pechar and Dent said after the meeting that the federal decision was satisfactory to them.

Two-Mill Tax Levy Approved In Kinzua

Taxpayers of Kinzua township, meeting last night in Morrison's Garage at Kinzua, approved a proposed two-mill tax levy on real estate for fire protection purposes.

The meeting was attended by 62 persons, 51 of whom voted in favor of the new tax.

The money will be used to help pay off the balance on the new fire truck which was purchased by the Kinzua Fire Department last week.

"Traffic Chaos" of American Cities Problem For Mayors

Washington, March 22—(P)—The United States conference of mayors today considered asking congress to help relieve the "traffic chaos" of American cities by doubling their usual share of federal highway funds.

Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, Federal Works Administrator, told the mayors' annual meeting that the $673,000,000 authorized by congress since the war for city highways is only "a small fraction" of the amount needed.

Fleming urged the mayors to develop broad patterns immediately for the fast movement of motor traffic. The existence of such prints, he said, soon will be made a condition of federal aid.

There is hope, the FWA administrator added, that congress will provide "substantial" funds for slum clearance and the redevelopment of city centers.

Such plans should be dovetailed with the highway program, he said, and the cities should move at once to acquire the necessary land.

Awaiting action before the conference's resolutions committee, headed by Mayor William E. Kemp of Kansas City, is a demand that congress earmark "at least 50 per cent" of next year's $450,000,000 highway-aid fund for city use.

Only 25 per cent now is set aside for city routes.

PASSAGE OF MEASURE IS ANTICIPATED

Despite Republican Opposition to Some Parts of Bill, Chairman Predicts Adoption

LEADERS IN A HURRY

Washington, March 22—(P)—Democratic senators put aside their sectional differences today to rally behind a measure extending federal rent controls.

Both the southerners who staged a long fight against an anti-filibuster rules change and the party leaders who opposed them joined ranks to support a bill which would continue controls to 15 months.

Despite Republican opposition to some parts of the bill, Chairman Maybank (D-SC) of the senate banking committee told a reporter he was confident the senate would pass the measure by tomorrow afternoon "at the latest."

The administration is in a hurry because present rent controls expire March 21. Even after senate passage, rent control differences will have to be worked out with the house.

Opening debate in the senate yesterday showed strong Republican support for two features of the house bill which the senate committee eliminated.

One would permit towns, cities, counties or states to take over rent controls or to drop them. The senate measure reserves that power for states alone. The other would allow landlords "a reasonable return on a reasonable value" of their property.

But Maybank said he expects no substantial changes in the bill as reported by his committee.

On the rent issue, he noted, the Democrats have buried the differences that wracked them in the two-week filibuster fight.

The bill falls short of what President Truman asked. It extends controls less than the two years he wants, and permits some rent increases of up to 10 per cent.

But Majority Leader Lucas of Illinois told reporters he considered it "a very good bill." Senator Sparkman (D-Ala.), chairman of the sub-committee that handled the measure, said it was a compromise but added that "by and large it is what the administration asked for."

He said the senate committee found the fair return provision impractical and decided instead to permit two 5 per cent rent increases—one on Oct. 1, 1949, and the other on April 1, 1950—provided that this does not bring total rent boosts to more than 15 per cent above the June 30, 1947, level.

Sparkman said the committee hopes this will be the last extension of federal controls.

"Will you guarantee that rent controls will be dropped at the end of 12 months?" asked Taft. "If so, I will be glad to drop all criticism of the bill."

Sparkman replied that "the housing situation a year from now" will determine whether another extension of rent controls is necessary.

Erie Estate Case Is Heard By Court

Pittsburgh, March 22—(P)—The Pennsylvania supreme court Monday heard arguments in the case of an Erie widow's will, made less than a month before her death, leaving her estate to the Rt. Rev. John Mark Gannon, bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Erie.

Mrs. Mary Louise Greider made a will July 1, 1947, directing her estate be given Bishop Gannon, or his successor, in trust to educate young men for the Catholic priesthood. She died 23 days later.

Her heirs, Katherine Louise Fross, Henry A. Schloss, Anna Theresa Liebel, Barbara Sawdye and Philip Schloss, claim the will is invalid because Mrs. Greider died less than 30 days after it was signed. They are appealing a decision of Erie county orphans court which found in favor of Bishop Gannon.

Attorneys for the bishop contended the bequest is valid since Mrs. Greider indicated similar intentions in a paper drawn jointly with her husband, William Greider, eight years earlier. The estate consists principally of property at 27th and Parade streets, in Erie.

ANTI-SEGREGATION IS OMITTED IN MEASURE

Washington, March 22—(P)—The house passed a 70-group Air Force bill and sent it to the senate today. It refused to approve an anti-segregation amendment.

The roll call vote on final passage was 395 to 34. Those against the bill were Reps. Celler (D-N.Y.), Marshall (D-Minn.) and Marston (AL-N.Y.). The anti-segregation amendment, by Marston, went down 253 to 34.

The New Yorker's amendment, on which there was no roll call vote, would have prohibited the Air Force from making any purchases from individuals or companies that discriminate in employment opportunities because of race, creed or color. Marston was unable to muster enough votes to force a roll call.

ed his hopes for a music career. But he recovered and started his own orchestra at 13. After graduating from the University of Pennsylvania—he was granted," said Elliot Lawrence, then only 19—Elliot entered the wonder in this field. "They highly competitive popular dance field. Today his band is rated by many as the top college dance band in the country. It travels 65,000 miles a year. "But it just doesn't get to its engagements automatically," Lawrence smiled. And he went into the figures—the gross in the $300,000 gross. His orchestra has 17 members, including two vocalists and they get from $5,000 to $7,000 a year each. "And the boys get paid whether they work or not," said Elliot. "A band has to have transportation—a truck and five cars. And we have to have two or three arrangers, at $100 a week apiece. "You have to have an advance man to go ahead of the band to make arrangements, and a publicity agent. Together they cost, say, $250 a week. "You have to have a booking agency that gets ten to 20 percent of your gross, and a personal business manager who gets about half of that. You also have to have a road manager along—at $100 a week. "And you have to take along two band boys to drive trucks, set up the band and take care of the music. That's another $125 a week. "There are a lot of other incidents like band equipment—uniforms, stands, mutes and pictures, mats and photographs. "Lawrence, one of the few band leaders who neither smokes nor drinks, leaned back and took a swing from a paper carton full of orange juice. "You can see," he grinned, "that it isn't a way to get rich quick. The expenses are really terrific. "Some highly-paid band leaders find at the end of the year they have to borrow money to satisfy Uncle Sam. They make the error of making the gross income of their band for their own net income. And sometimes they are worried by business managers who have the same idea. "My father is my business manager," said Elliot. "I don't have to worry about my money being stolen." Lawrence feels that dance band!

work is essentially a young man's business. The average age of his own band is 23. "I want to go as far as I can," he said, "and then get out and go back to serious music. I would like to be a symphony conductor." He has the background. He has composed some successful symphonic music, and he employs in his band instruments rarely found in popular orchestras—the French horn, oboe and bassoon. When he does return to the symphonic field, Lawrence will have one edge over Beethoven—a bigger bank account. He really hasn't led a band for nothing.

Monday was humorously canonized as "St. Monday," the festival of cobblers. Cobblers were supposed not to know on which day the feast of St. Crispin, their patron saint, fell, except that it should be a Monday, so they celebrated the patron's feast every Monday.

Recruiting Service Being Streamlined

The army recruiting service is being "streamlined" in Pennsylvania. Airman 4/CL Edwin C. Copeland of the local U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force recruiting service in the Post Office building announced today. Statewide reorganization of the recruiting service, which has been directed by the department of the army, will become effective on March 22nd. Reassignment of some of the functions of certain recruiting stations will result primarily in a reduction of the capacity of examining facilities throughout the district. However, a complete recruiting coverage of the state will be continued as in the past, Airman Copeland emphasized.

The operating staffs of the Williamsport, Pottsville, Reading, DuBois, New Castle and Greensburg stations will be reduced slightly in size, but will remain open for business as usual. The reorganization is due in part to the recent reduction in the number of draft calls, together with a proportionate reduction in the requirements for recruiting facilities in this state.

Members of the Optimist Club are returning a favor to the cast and participants of their recent production "Headin' Hollywood," with a party at the YWCA Thursday evening.

The cast and choruses, numbering 122, will be treated from 8:00 to 11:00 p. m.

Optimists are extremely grateful for the time and work the participants extended in making the production a success. They feel that this get-together will balance the differences in effort that rehearsing and a constant twelve-day drive are over the job of sponsorship.

They wish to thank the following members of the cast and choruses:

TEST FOR LUBRICANT

The Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil Association at Oil City reports a new laboratory method to determine if a lubricant is classed as Pennsylvania grade. Scientists now can use an infrared spectrometer to look for Pennsylvania grade characteristics not otherwise discernable. A second method is to measure the number of bromine atoms which can be added to carbon atoms in the oil. Pennsylvania grade absorbs a different amount than other oils. A third method measures the velocity of light traveling through oil with a polarimeter.

New Phone Circuits To Pittsburgh

Many additional telephone circuits between Warren and Pittsburgh will be provided by a new $600,000 cable project, now under construction, between Warren and Oil City. It was announced today by James R. Cober, local manager of The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania.

The new cable line will be approximately 45 miles in length and will run by way of Tidioute. Mr. Cober said. It will connect at Oil City with other cable lines to Pittsburgh, and will make available more circuits, not only to Pittsburgh but to other points on the nation-wide long distance network which are reached by routing calls through Pittsburgh. It is expected the project will be completed before the end of the year.

This new cable line makes available a second telephone route from Warren and other northern Pennsylvania cities to Pittsburgh. The present line goes by way of Kane and Blairsville.

Herrings require 12 hours' curing before they are "flipped."

Burns Still In Contest For Judge's Post

Erie—The choice of a Federal judge for Western Pennsylvania to succeed Robert M. Gibson, who resigned, has narrowed down to U. S. Attorney Owen M. Burns and Congressman Herman Eberharter, Pittsburgh, it was learned late Saturday.

Mayor David L. Lawrence, Pittsburgh, has reportedly dropped Attorney Femo Columbus, Pittsburgh, as his candidate.

Lawrence and Senator Francis Myers, who must make a recommendation for the post to President Truman, conferred Friday in Washington on the choice.

Yesterday's meeting between the two Democratic leaders was the first since February. At that time it was reported that a choice was agreed upon, providing Lawrence could smooth out some hitches in Western Pennsylvania.

Mayor Lawrence's choice, according to the report, was Columbus. He is said to have explained that he pledged the attorney his support a long time ago and couldn't go back on his word.

Senator Myers was reported cool to the idea for several reasons. The latest report indicated that Mayor Lawrence did not show enough to suit the senator.

Congressman Eberharter has the support of CIO unions in Allegheny county. The Erie CIO newspaper has urged Burns' appointment.

Senator Myers is reported favoring Burns. A definite announcement on the appointment is expected within a few days.

Firemen In Pleasant Twp. Hold Meeting

The Pleasant Township Volunteer Fire Department held its regular meeting last evening with 33 members present.

Chief item of business on the agenda was the decision to build a new fire hall on the site presented to the department in order to have a building ready to house equipment when it is obtained. A committee was named to draw up plans for the proposed building.

Members also voted favorably to incorporate the department and trustees will be elected at a meeting to be held soon.

It was decided to continue the dances being held every two weeks in the IOOF Hall at Clarendon and a committee consisting of Rex Confer and James Pierce was appointed to operate the dances.

A new ways and means committee for the purpose of raising money was appointed and is to report at the next regular meeting.

Following the business meeting, lunch was served and a social hour enjoyed by those present.

Fire Wardens See Interesting Film

Spectacular on-the-scene movies of the huge forest fire which ravaged the Bar Harbor resort area last year highlighted the program for the annual dinner meeting of forest fire wardens from the western area of Warren county and Erie county Friday night in the Brokenstraw Grange hall in Youngsville Friday night.

Movies also were shown illustrating forestry management practices, and a fascinating picture of the Tongass timberlands in Alaska.

Jay Fees was master of ceremonies for an informal program that included brief talks by District Forester Anton Vogler, Farm Forester W. O. Keefe, forest fire wardens, game wardens, Fish Warden Ross Bailey, County Superintendent of Schools H. L. Blair, and the Rev. William Chamberlain, vicar of the Youngsville Episcopal Mission.

A similar dinner meeting for Sheffield area forest fire wardens and others will be held Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock in the American Legion home at Sheffield.

Annual Flowers Best for Low Foundation Planting

For a one-story house set two steps above the ground level, a planting of flowers along the foundation line is an ideal solution of the front yard planting problem.

Where shrubs or evergreens would soon grow so tall as to screen the windows, and make the house appear lower than it is, flowers will remain at a desirable height, and present a band of attractive color at the base of the house.

The simply designed small homes now being built need an attractive frame, such as the flowers would provide. Its effect will be heightened if the colors of the flowers harmonize with the colors of the house and its trim.

The planting suggested in the illustration uses white and blue flowers. This combination will harmonize with any other colors. It will be especially attractive with a buff or light yellow house, but will also be excellent with red brick, and gray. White petunias are in some ways the most desirable of these plants, and may be depended upon to produce their flowers abundantly throughout the summer.

Sweet alyssum is equally free blooming, as well as fragrant. It shows signs of age in midsummer, it can be sheared like a hedge, and will soon be blooming again at a youthful rate. Myosotis is the true forget-me-not, growing just enough taller than the alyssum to register as a band of blue.

A fashion for dooryard gardens, to take the place of trees and shrubbery in front yards, is spreading through the country. It is based on the feeling that too much modern architecture demands that summer be admitted freely, not only to the outside, but also to the inside of the house through the increased use of glass. Flowers in the front yard reveal in the sunshine, and cast no shade to the detriment of the house and lawn.

The minute hand of London's Big Ben is 14 feet long.

LEWIS HURTS HIS CHANCES

One of John L. Lewis' fellow unionists, Jack Kroll, director of the CIO Political Action Committee, thinks United Mine Workers president hurt labor's chances getting the Taft-Hartley Law repealed with his two-week "memorial period" work stoppage. There are many who will agree with Mr. Kroll.

One cannot quarrel with the motive behind this latest work stoppage. Mr. Lewis says that during the two-week layoff, miners east of the Mississippi "will mourn unnecessary slaughter of 55,115 men killed and injured 1948. (Of that number 1,115 were killed, according to government figures.)

The "suspension of mining" is also a protest against Dr. Lewis Boyd, whom Lewis calls "an incompetent, unequal person" who has "usurped the office and functions director of the Federal Bureau of Mines."

On the first count Mr. Lewis is on as safe ground as he had wrapped himself in the flag. But the timing of work stoppage has raised a suspicion in some minds: he is once again using a solemn and tragic occurrence as a bargaining weapon. This same suspicion arose, it is said, when he declared a workless week of mining in 1947 for the victims of the Centralia, Ill., mine disaster about a month before he was to begin negotiations a new contract.

Dr. Boyd has held his position in the Federal Bureau of Mines for a year and a half. Mr. Lewis has opposed his presence there, which may be why the senate has not yet confirmed his appointment. Yet Mr. Lewis has only now moved around to a point of indignation where he orders his men to stop work.

His belated act of resentment comes about two months after another session of contract negotiations is due. It also been noted that the act comes at a time when coal is about two-thirds more above ground than at the end of the mild winter in the east and other areas.

Congressmen, mine operators and others have charged that Mr. Lewis' real motive is to reduce this abnormal supply and thus put himself once more in the position of forcing his demands by threat of hardship on the miners, railroads, industry and the general public.

The charges may or may not be true. But Mr. Lewis' past actions have been such that the suspicions are naturally present. Those past actions were mainly responsible for that portion of the Taft-Hartley Law which gave the president new and specific powers for dealing with national emergency strikes.

Mr. Lewis demands the repeal of the law that grants these powers. So do other union heads. So does the Administration and many members of Congress. Now Mr. Lewis seems to threaten a return to the calamity tactics which made the Taft-Hartley curbs necessary and possible. Congress will be thinking about those tactics when the new bill comes up for action.

The boss man of the miners will be lucky if his latest move does not perpetuate the very curbs that he has so recently opposed. He will also be lucky if he doesn't get a dose of those honorary S. O. B. degrees from Mr. Truman for leading out the miners in protest against the presidential appointment of Dr. Boyd.

LENTEN SERMONETTE

Dan K. Walton, General Secretary, Warren Y. M. C. A.

THE CARPENTER OF NAZARETH

I can think of no better sermonette for today than the following statement which, several years ago, we had printed on all cards for the Trenton, New Jersey, Y. M. C. A., and now have printed for our Warren Young Men's Christian Association. I commend this statement, written by the late Rev. Dr. H. H. H. H., for your earnest and thoughtful consideration during this Lenten season.

"JESUS—The Carpenter of Nazareth."

"Not a physician, but the master of all human ills; Not a lawyer, but the expounder of the elemental principles of all law; Not an author, but the inspirer of the living literature of the world; Not an orator, but the interpreter of the universal human mind; Not a poet or musician, but the soul and inspiration of all song and of all music; Not an artist, but the unfailing light of the great masters, and new; Not an architect, but the soul-transformer and character-builder of all time; Not a statesman, but the state and institution founder of the world; And, more wonderful than all a man blameless and untroubled by sin or marred by taint of wrong."

The Pedestal Is Ready

Here And There

We ran across an item in the Warren Ledger of 67 years ago this week, March 22, to be exact, which contains additional information about the Warren Library that should be appreciated by the hundreds who make use of that civic center daily. It says: "Warren is not large enough yet to have many subjects under discussion at the same time. Just now and for the past few weeks the subject of Hon. Thomas Struthers' gift to the town of a building to cost in the neighborhood of one hundred thousand dollars, for the benefit of the Library Association, has been under discussion, and the committee has been at work soliciting subscriptions to purchase ground upon which to erect the magnificent structure. The money is raised, the ground purchased, accepted by Mr. Struthers, and Mr. Wood has gone to New York to engage an architect to furnish a plan and specifications. Mr. Struthers says he intends to put up a building the like of which has not yet been erected in this part of the state, in size, architectural beauty and finish. It is understood to combine rooms for stores on the first floor, library rooms, and offices to rent on the second floor and in the rear an opera house. The proceeds of all these places to go to the benefit of the library to be its continuous and unfailing support. The lot purchased are on the corner of Liberty Street and Third street, where J. Sill and S. W. Waters now reside. The committee paid these gentlemen as follows for their property: J. Sill $4,750 and reserves the buildings. S. W. Waters receives $3,750 and reserves his buildings, and is given a lot in the rear of the purchased lots, and fronting on third street, to move his dwelling upon. Mr. Struthers, being a fortunate business man, having accumulated a large fortune, and wishing to be for the good of his town, before he dies, has taken this method of exemplifying his feelings and generous sentiments. His praiseworthy act will perpetuate his memory down the stream of time. The present generation will reap the benefits as well as those who will come after."

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Opposition Expected Toward Roberts Federal Union Plan

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Ex-Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts' newly announced "Atlantic Union Committee for a Federal Convention of Democracies" will probably meet with considerable opposition from isolationists and old America Firsters. What the Roberts Committee seeks ultimately is a central government for world democracies within the United Nations. This new world government would have a single citizenship, with its own legislative, executive and judicial systems, its own defense forces, money, customs and postal systems.

It will be argued that if the 60-odd countries of the world cannot now run a successful United Nations organization, it is hopeless to expect that they could get along under a central government as a federal union of states. But this very idea has been growing for a long time and "We feel that now is the critical time to launch this movement for a federal union of nations that sign the Atlantic Pact," says Justice Roberts.

"An idea of this kind can't get any place until it is a political issue," Justice Roberts continues. "Now, with the text of the Atlantic Pact announced, it is a political issue. I have been committed to this idea for eight years, but I have been holding back on it until people could begin to say 'My senator is for it' or 'My congressman is against it,' and they could begin arguing about it. That is exactly what we want."

THE growth of this movement which Justice Roberts now heads up as president of the Atlantic Union Committee is interesting to trace. Since World War II there have been a number of similar movements like R. L. Whitehouse's "World Republic," Robert K. Hutchins "Federal Republic of the World," Cord Meyer Jr.'s "United World Federalists," Ely Culbertson's "Citizens Committee for United Nations Reform," and others.

Antedating all these is Clarence K. Streit's "Union Now" and his original proposal for a world "Bill of Human Rights." Both were considered seriously in France in 1932. Streit for 19 years before had been a correspondent covering the League of Nations. He saw first hand the old League's failures and weaknesses.

Last year a Declaration of Human Rights was adopted by a majority of the United Nations, and an eminently respectable committee of citizens headed by Justice Roberts, former Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson and former Undersecretary of State Will Clayton have today practically adopted his "Union Now."

WITHIN the near future the committee will conduct a drive for membership and for funds to keep up its agitation for a Federal Union of Democracies until it becomes an established fact. The Roberts Committee is aiming to achieve this goal by easy stages. It has set no year when it thinks world government can be achieved. First step will be to build up public support for ratification of the North Atlantic Pact.

Justice Roberts admits that mere discussion of the subject may be all that can be accomplished at this session of Congress. "Whether we could get action this year is still on the knees of the gods," he says. There will be many charges that this proposal will make America surrender her sovereignty. "The United States can't yield any of its sovereignty," says Justice Roberts. "We would have to amend our Constitution before we could yield sovereignty. And anything the first conference of nations might recommend would have to be sent back to the people for ratification."

"Even if this conference should decide that a federal union could not be formed at this time, there would be a gain in having the United States take the lead in asking the other democracies to discuss the subject."

CARD PLAYERS

About 83 per cent of all American families play card games and 87 per cent of these keep playing cards in their homes, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Vehicle condition is said by some authorities to be directly or indirectly responsible for about 15 per cent of all accidents.

Mackenzie's Column

Paul G. Hoffman, economic cooperation administrator, told a dozen Swedish labor leaders in Washington the other day that Russia won't start a war so long as "the free peoples of the world stand together."

That likely is true, and it would have been interesting if Mr. Hoffman had expanded on that idea a bit. Who are the "free peoples" and what makes them that way? That and a lot of other questions must be answered if we are to navigate the present troubled waters successfully. It is a problem of education.

In recognition of this fact, America's educational leaders are planning changes in curricula, to deal with the question growing out of a continuing cold war. The educational policies of the National Education Association, of which President Dwight Eisenhower of Columbia University is a member, conferred in Washington last week. Dr. John K. Norton of Columbia, chairman of the commission, said:

"The prospect that the cold war will continue into the adulthood of children now in school intensifies the responsibilities of teachers in the present international crisis. The commission expects to make recommendations in the spring. They will be designed to guide teachers and to implement American foreign policy."

A great problem has revolved about the question of whether Communism should be dealt with in the class room and, if so, just how. Many educators have reached the conclusion that the facts about Communism should be presented but in a wholly objective manner.

There are many queries which the inquiring young mind (and the old one, for that matter) would like answered. One of them probably is why it should have fallen to the great Russian empire to become the homeland of Bolshevism.

NEA-ACME's Frank Cancellare Wins Five Major Awards In White House News Photographers' Annual Contest

Washington, March 20—(NEA)—Frank Cancellare set a new mark in photographic achievement by winning five major prizes in the sixth annual White House News Photographers Association contest—more than any one entrant has ever received.

The NEA-Acme photographer, whose pictures appear regularly in the Times-Mirror, received the Grand Prize of the show, three first prizes and one third prize. This recognition of Cancellare's work marked another milestone in his award-studded career as a news photographer whose assignments have ranged from the war in China to presidential campaign coverage.

President Harry S. Truman, who was the subject of three of these award-winning pictures, presented the Grand Prize cup and four plaques to the NEA-Acme photographer at the WHNPA banquet here, attended by government, newspaper and film notables. Cancellare is the third Acme photographer to win the George Harris trophy in the six years that it has been offered.

The new picture that won the grand prize came as a climax to Cancellare's 10,000 miles of lenswork aboard the presidential campaign special last fall. Titled "Taint the Way I Heard It," it was taken the day after the election and showed President Truman gaily holding aloft a Chicago Tribune with the headline "Dewey Defeats Truman."

This picture was one of those unexpected shots that news photographers must make with split-second accuracy or miss forever. Someone handed Truman a copy of the Tribune as he stood on the platform of his Washington-bound train during a brief stop in St. Louis.

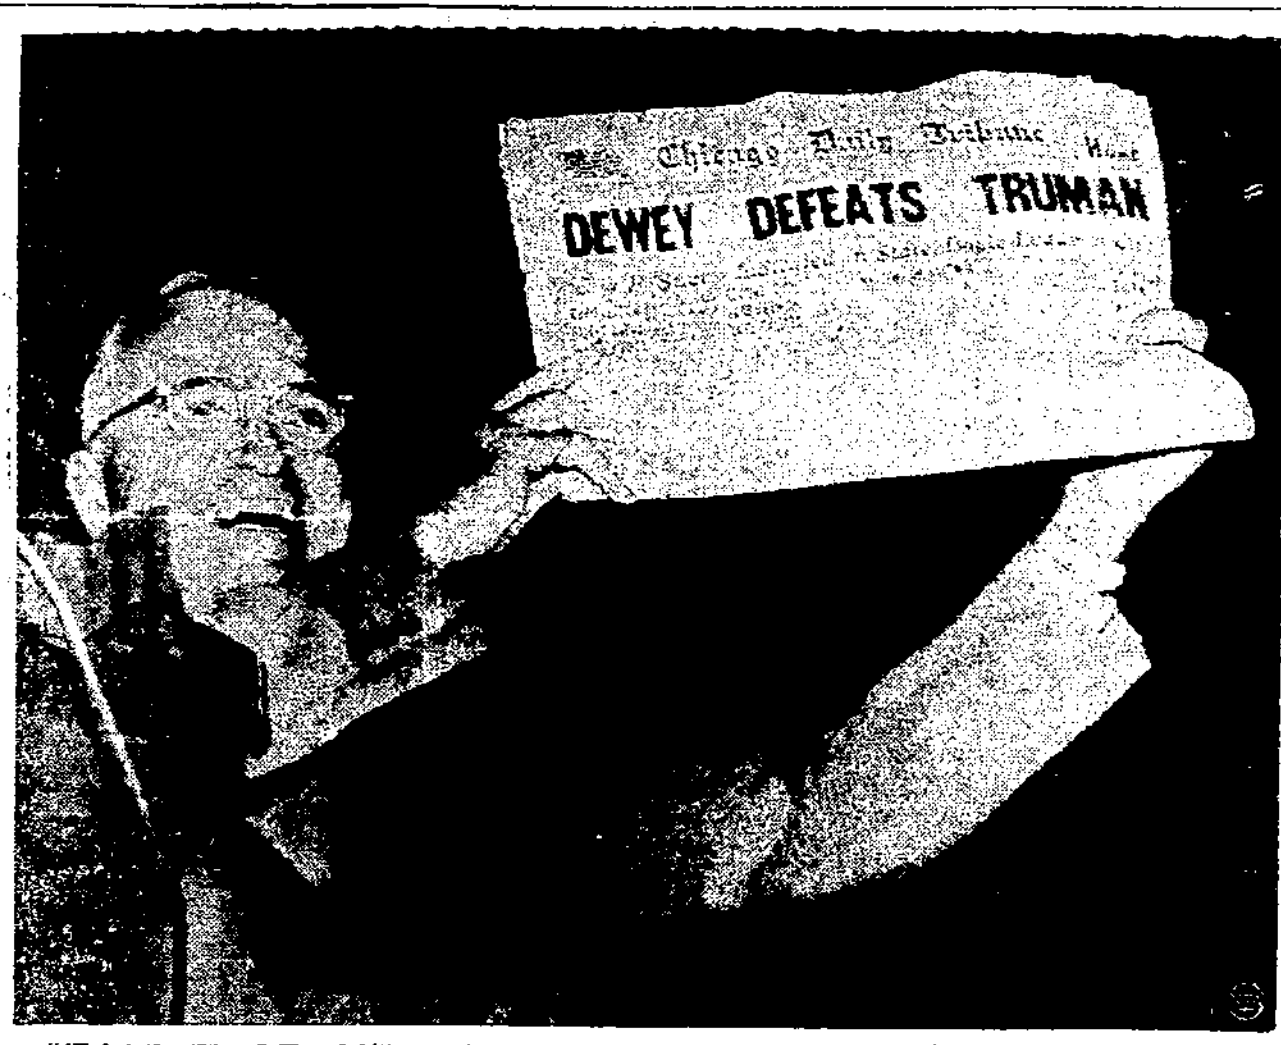

Cancellare swung his camera up at the instant the President broke out into broad grin and waved the paper to the crowd. Inside a half-hour, this historic picture was being transmitted by Acme Television to newspapers throughout the country from the NEA-Acme bureau in St. Louis. Later judged one of the year's outstanding news pictures, it also won first prize in the WHNPA Spot News Class.

"Shutter Bug" the Cancellare picture that won first prize in the Presidential Class, was an excellent candid shot of Truman about to go into action with a new movie camera. Members of the "One Here Club," composed of White House news photographers, presented the camera to the President, and he promptly turned it on them.

Third prize in this class went to Cancellare's "Champs"—another post-election picture showing Truman and Vice-President

President Harry S. Truman presents the George W. Harris Trophy to Frank Cancellare as grand prize in the WHNPA competition.

"Taint the Way I Heard It" won the grand prize and the first prize in the Spot News class for Cancellare. It was taken Nov. 4 when the President's victory special stopped in St. Louis.

"Shutter Bug" won first prize in Presidential Class.

"Champs" won third prize in Presidential Class.

Alben Barkley arriving in Washington Nov. 5 with hands held aloft in the victors' pose. "Love in Bloom," a sparkling study of the capital's famed cherry tree row, won Cancellare the first prize in the Scenic Class. When spring came early to Washington last year, the NEA-Acme lensman took his camera to the picturesque tidal basin and photographed a soldier and his girl beneath the blossoms.

All of these award-winning pictures resulted from regular assignment work, and they previously appeared in newspapers throughout the country in connection with the news or feature events they illustrated.

Brooklyn-born Cancellare started his camera career as a "squeaky boy" (print dryer) in Acme's New York office when he was 16. He graduated to lens work in 1937, and by the time war came he had a sound and varied background of photographic experience.

Road and flew the "hump" many times in 1944, and turned his lens on combat scenes in the hot jungles of Burma and on the broad plains of China in 1945.

The NEA-Acme photographer went along on the first B-29 raid on the Japanese homeland, made the first pictures of hand-bowed airfields in China, and produced a dramatic series of photos of terror-stricken Chinese civilians fleeing before the Jap armies.

Since the war, Cancellare has covered major events in Washington and elsewhere for the Times-Mirror and other NEA-Acme client newspapers throughout the U. S. He made spectacular pictures of the Texas City disaster, photographed all of last year's political conventions and is one of several NEA-Acme photographers assigned to the presidential beat.

Recently Cancellare was bundled into a plane and flown to Fort Worth on an assignment cloaked with secrecy. It turned out to be the arrival of "Lucky Lady II," the B-29 that flew non-stop around the world.

Winning awards is no novelty to the 37-year-old photographer. He has several WHNPA prizes from previous years, placed first in the newspaper section of the

FATALITIES INCREASE

According to statistics from the Bureau of Highway Safety in Harrisburg, figures concerning traffic fatalities in Pennsylvania for the month of January, 1949, as compared with January 1948, show an increase of 11.1%. Counties showing increases in this area are Warren, Crawford and Elk. A decrease is shown in Venango county. Remaining the same for 1949 as compared with 1948 are Erie, Forest and McKean. Both pedestrian and motorist deaths show increases, but the one bright spot in the picture is revealed in bicycle statistics which show a 71.4% reduction. As always, driving too fast for conditions and reckless driving involving negligence are listed as the leading causes.

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, March 21—(AP)—We've just taken a step which may end in war or prevent war.

In the Atlantic Pact, just announced, we're entering a peace-time military alliance with western Europe, aimed at Russia.

But there's no shock over the news of the past. Why not, since we've had a tradition of isolationism, of keeping out of Europe's affairs?

In the first place, our joining the United Nations in 1945 to keep world peace was definitely saying goodbye to isolationism.

That put us into Europe's affairs. And we've been up to our neck in them since then by helping one country in Europe after another to stand up against communism and Russia.

But in the second place, our so-called isolationism is a myth, as the last two world wars show. In his book, "Paths To The Present," Arthur M. Schlesinger, one of the best American historians, shows what a myth it's been from away back.

He points out that this country, including its colonial days, has been involved in one way or another in nine, not just two, world wars since 1689.

These included the American phases of bigger European wars in colonial days, the American revolution, the French revolutionary wars, the Napoleonic wars, and the "first" and "second" World Wars.

But isn't a military alliance in peacetime with European powers contrary to the thinking of this country's founding fathers? Even if it were, it would mean nothing if this country now found itself confronted with a danger they couldn't foresee. But—

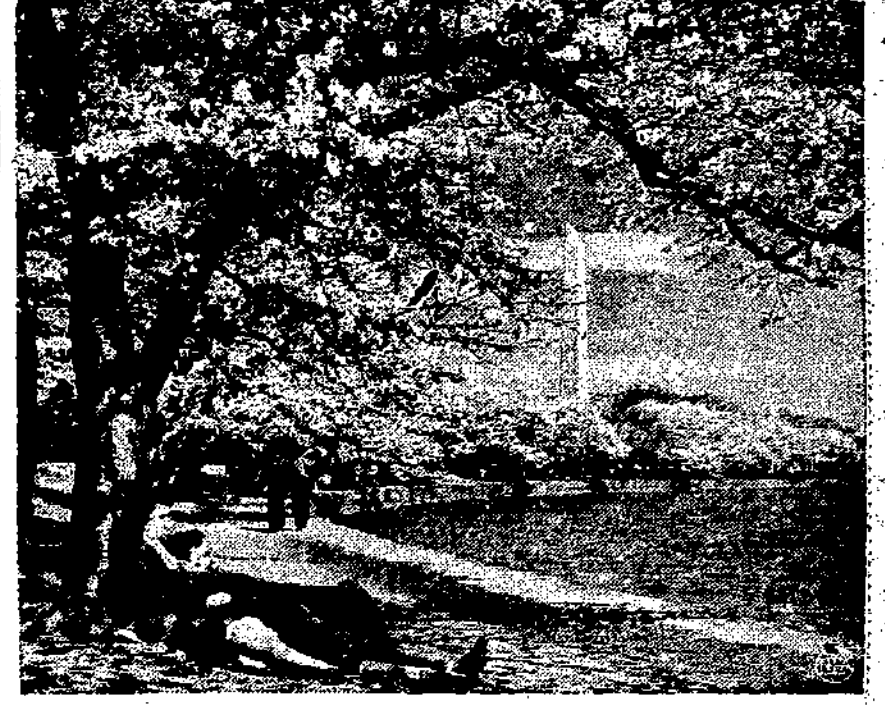

Jefferson and the men who helped him put together the declaration of independence in 1776 foresaw the possible need for alliances. The declaration says:

"... These United colonies... have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances..."

The changes going on in Europe now are not ordinary. The Atlantic pact is for 20 years, if that can be considered temporary.

Jefferson gave his warning against "entangling alliances" in his first inaugural address in 1801, without explaining what he meant.

But he must not have had a closed mind about alliances for in the next year, 1802, when he thought France was going to get

"Love in Bloom" won first prize in Scenic Class.

New Orleans from Spain, and thus control the Mississippi river, he felt "we must marry ourselves to the British fleet and nation" for protection.

There weren't any world wars between 1815 and 1914 and it was in that period that this country began to feel remote from Europe.

But, Schlesinger says, this country has "never managed to avoid participation in any foreign conflict involving operations in the North Atlantic. So apparently it's no accident that the full name of the present pact is the North Atlantic Pact."

Ladies Union Has Tribute Honoring Deceased Member

Irvine, Mar. 22.—The March meeting of the Ladies Union of the Irvine Presbyterian church was held at the home of Mrs. Kermit Vicander, with a good attendance. Mrs. Ernest Crull presided and conducted a brief business session. At this time members voted a contribution to the American Red Cross and Mrs. Roy Lightner, treasurer, presented a splendid report for 1948, this being the first session of 1949.

The devotional and program period was dedicated to the memory of Mrs. Anna Brezell, beloved and faithful member, who died March 5. A song service preceded the reading of a beautiful poem, "You Made Us Your Friends," selected by Mrs. Crull and read by Teresa Nelson. The Resurrection Story from the Gospel of St. John was read by Grace Oviatt. Other readings were relative to the Easter season and reminded members that life does not end in the giving up of a loved one but is often enriched because we have known that person. At the close of the memorial service, members authorized Grace Oviatt and Mildred Vicander to select a book to be placed in the Warren Public Library in Mrs. Brezell's memory.

Members were sorry to learn of the illness of Mrs. Ben Hucksbone and wished her a speedy recovery and sympathy was extended to Mrs. Carl Munson and Mrs. N. B. Hulings in their recent bereavement.

The color appropriate for St. Patrick's Day was evident in the delicious refreshments served by the hostesses during the social hour and in the table decorations, which consisted of a centerpiece of carnations in a crystal bowl and candles in crystal holders. The free-will offering amounted to a goodly sum.

The April 1st meeting will have Mrs. Inez Westfall as hostess.

Many persons in town, particularly those in musical circles, will recall when Horace Brynolson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brynolson, of Corry, was studying voice in the Warren Conservatory of Music, under the late Alfred J. Mooney, and was heard as soloist in various churches about town. These same friends will be interested in announcement just received that the young Swedish-American tenor, now known in New York under the professional name of Andre Brynson, has been engaged by the New York Oratorio Society as soloist for its presentation of Haydn's "Creation" when it is given at St. Thomas' on May 23. The society, which has kept up its activities since Dr. Walter Damrosch presented "Samson" in 1974, will be under the direction of Dr. Greenfield. Brynson received a genuine ovation March 13 when he was engaged for a benefit concert sponsored by the Norwegian Seamen in New York. The large audience was insistent in recalls for his Swedish and Norwegian airs.

Word comes from Chautauqua Institution that it is adding another outstanding feature to its youth music program in the form of a High School Choral Camp for students with superior voice ability June 26-July 5. The Youth Orchestra, organized a few years ago, has attracted talented young instrumentalists from many parts of the country and, with the addition of the Choral Camp Chautauqua will offer one of the most complete youth music programs to be found in the east.

This camp is a natural outgrowth of the summer session of the Columbus Boy Choir School, established at Chautauqua over five years ago, and its high school music program in Columbus, O., where more than 300 high school boys and girls are enrolled in various girl choirs, male and mixed choruses. The regular musical staff of the Boy Choir School is being supplemented by several outstanding teachers from other parts of the country. Urgent Need Of Graduate Nurses Cited Erie—The Visiting Nurse Association of Erie, which has been serving the city and surrounding territory for 35 years, is in great need of more graduate registered nurses for its staff, according to Miss Helen Uhlman, R. N., acting director.

"Like every organization devoted to the care of the ill, infirm and injured, we are feeling the general shortage of graduate nurses," Miss Uhlman said.

The growth of Erie, the scarcity of hospital beds and the constantly increasing birth rate are all placing added demands upon the services of the Visiting Nurse Association, Miss Uhlman said.

"We must have more nurses to provide the community with the type of public health nursing it deserves and demands."

The Erie Visiting Nurse Association, Miss Uhlman said, offers a great career in public health nursing to the graduate nurse. In addition to caring for the sick at home, the visiting nurse is a health teacher, promoting the physical and mental health of the patients; teaching the personal and home hygiene, and cooperating closely with all community resources to aid in solving social and economic problems which arise in the homes of the sick.

Salaries of visiting nurses in Erie are comparable to those in other fields, Miss Uhlman pointed out, and a retirement plan, sick-leave and vacation schedule make public health nursing attractive to the graduate nurse.

Any registered nurse interested in joining the Visiting Nurse Association is urged to contact Miss Uhlman at her office, 319 W. 8th St., in Erie.

Miss Coplon Had Urge To Write Fiction

Washington, March 22—A yen to write fiction may be offered in the defense of Judith Coplon, ex-government girl facing charges of slipping out highly secret U. S. papers.

Miss Coplon herself, an attractive 27-year old woman who worked on political analysis in the Justice Department, denies guilt of any espionage activity.

Her attorney told reporters yesterday she was engaged in assembling material for a romantic novel with a political background when she was picked up by the FBI on espionage charges.

She was arrested March 4 in New York City with Valentin A. Gubitchev, Russian engineer employed by the United Nations. The FBI said that at the time she had in her purse confidential intelligence reports relating to spying in this country and counter-spy activities by the FBI.

Miss Coplon's attorney, Archibald Palmer, said yesterday the material actually consisted only of notes for the projected book.

He emphatically denied that any of the material had been passed to Gubitchev.

Miss Coplon, chic in a tweedy costume of plain skirt, black basque sweater and green wool sport coat, sat by approvingly as Palmer outlined the defense position to the multiple charges standing against the former government girl.

CHINA PEACE TALKS ARE BEING SET UP

Nanking, March 22—(P)—The Nationalist representative in Red Peiping urged the government today to name its peace delegation.

Urgency was stressed in a telephone call to acting President Li Tsung-shen from Liaison Officer Huang Shi-Han. Huang said he believed the Peiping Communists would agree to peace talks when the delegates were named.

Li immediately ordered the new cabinet to assemble here. Absent members were told to fly to Nanking. They include the new foreign minister, Fu Ping-Chang, ambassador to Moscow.

The new cabinet is slated to meet tomorrow or Thursday. At the top of the agenda is the selection of peace delegates.

Li and Premier Ho Ying-Chin reportedly drafted a list of delegates tonight. Acceptable to the Communists, they go to Peiping for the peace talks.

FLOOD LAST YEAR
One year ago today, the spring flood of 1948 hit Warren and inundated Times Square, parts of the South side and parts of the West side. Although it has been a mild winter and the snowfall has been light, the weather bureau remembers that the floods of recent years have been caused by heavy downpours of rain rather than melting snow. The rise of the river last year was fast here as it was throughout the entire section with small tributaries going on a rampage after two days of heavy rain.

ERIE JANITOR HELD AS ARSON SUSPECT

Erie, March 22—(P)—A charged janitor today was hospitalized with arson after policeman Edward Williams accused him of setting fire to two houses.

Williams identified the man as Robert B. Shubrick, 42, Hamot Hospital employee. The policeman said Shubrick was captured by one of the 17 occupants of the two lower ranch street houses.

The fires were put out by occupants of the houses who saw a man strike matches and touch them to rubbish piled along the side of the frame houses at 321 and 221 French street. Williams said Shubrick made no statement. The man was captured at the scene of the second fire while occupants of the first house were looking for him.

Market Quotations
New York, March 22—(P)—Declining prices held a slight edge in the stock market today. The downward movement was measured in small fractions, and it was offset to some extent by fractional advances among a number of leading issues. Moderately active trading at the opening soon gave way to a quiet pace seen frequently in recent markets. Rails, steels and utilities were mixed, while motors and chemicals were mostly lower.

amount of bonds the new state general authority can issue also was endorsed.

The legislation, proposed by Duff to finance a $187,000,000 construction program in the next two years, now goes to the governor.

It provides for re-establishment of the General State Authority to build new mental hospitals and educational institutions, and creation of a new highway and bridge authority to build up to $40,000,000 worth of major roads and bridges. The bonds will be retired by rentals.

The house, meanwhile, advanced for a vote a home rule (city manager) bill with even its sponsors admitting it will be a nip-and-tuck fight in the lower branch.

The lower branch unanimously passed and sent to the senate the administration's program for buying and freeing the state's 10 last remaining privately operated toll bridges.

A senate committee continued its study of proposed sweeping revisions in the 1947 local tax law with some members reporting virtual approval of bans on taxes on natural resources, manufactured and farm products and the earned income of non-residents of communities levying wage taxes.

Sen. George B. Stevenson (R-Canton), chairman of the Local Government Committee, called another session of his group for Thursday.

On Murder's Skirts

Chapter 6

Raff left Norton filling out the report and went on his way to his own room to get a coat. He had offered to drive Norton to the station and the two were to have a drink before the train pulled out. Just as he was about to get into the elevator that would take him down to the staff house, he heard his name paged over the loudspeaker system.

"Dr. Rafferty—Dr. Dennis Rafferty," came the singsong voice.

Raff went over to a nearby phone.

"A man's voice came through, hurried, excited.

Raff frowned. "Yes," he answered. "About half past two, you say? Yes, that's quite likely. I'm afraid not tonight. How about tomorrow morning about 9 o'clock? No, I think I'd like to come over there. That's quite all right. Thanks for calling." He hung up and continued on his way to his room.

Ten minutes later he brought his car up to the main entrance where Norton was waiting. Norton got into the car and settled down at a small table. A waiter took their orders and the two men scotched back to look at the catalogue. Raff thumbed through the pages.

"Let me see—Art, Architecture, Botany—whoo—here it is—Biology."

He showed the page to Norton.

"Not a very large staff," said Norton. "One professor, one associate professor, and one instructor. And say, look at this, Raff. Emil Vereck, M.D., animal surgeon. Surely that's not Vereck from Prague?"

Raff said, "I don't know. I had heard that Vereck escaped the Nazis but I thought he was in England."

"Let's look him up in the index," Norton rapidly thumbed through the book.

Two A.M. and six A.M. this morning.

"That's just what I told Bray—and he became even more excited. He said he knew just how and when Hubbard got the dose. Also, he had a pretty good idea as to who was responsible and that it was no accident!"

"O dear," was all Norton could say.

"He wanted to come up to see me tonight but I told him I'd be over there in the morning. I've decided I'd better take a look to see just what is going on over there. If there's no need for any publicity, so much the better. That was all right with Bray, too. He seems to think it was one of two people. He's pretty sure he'll have some proof in the morning."

They reached the station and Raff parked the car.

"I brought along the university catalogue," Raff explained. "I'd like to look over the people on the staff there in the Bio Department. Thought you could give me the lowdown on some of the ones you know about."

They went into the station and Norton checked his bags. Then they went through the swinging door marked "Cocktails" and sat down at a small table. A waiter took their orders and the two men scotched back to look at the catalogue. Raff thumbed through the pages.

"Well, what do you know?" he said. "Vereck, Emil, Ph.D. Berlin 1920, M.D. Prague 1924. Queer that we haven't heard anything from him—and in the same town, too."

Raff said, "Doesn't it strike you that there is something fishy going on in that department? How about starting at the top? What do you know about the late Jasper B. Hubbard, professor and chairman of the department?"

"Well, Hubbard came to the department about five years ago, when old Barker died. And wait a minute. I remember now. Bray was associate professor at the time and was made chairman. Hubbard came here as associate professor. He came here from Midwestern U. and had an excellent record there. Well, after about a month Bray resigned from the chairmanship, saying that he was in poor health and that he couldn't take on the extra duties involved in being head of a department. He recommended that Hubbard take his place. I was a member of the board of trustees at the time and we really were in a spot. The school year had already begun and it was really tough to find a new head. So we simply took Bray's recommendation. And apparently Hubbard did a pretty good job. At least I've never heard anything to the contrary."

"Wonder what that illness was that became so distressingly apparent to Bray after one month as chairman," said Raff.

"Never did find out. Bray has always looked very fit to me."

"Well, so much for Hubbard. Anything more you know about Bray?"

"Not a thing except that he's been here since 1935. He did his graduate work here and then stayed on. He was pretty old when he started his graduate work, about thirty-five I'd say. The Brays keep pretty much to themselves."

OUT OF RUINS—When workmen removed this bell from the belfry of the Memory Church in the British sector of Berlin, they found it was the only one undamaged. The heavy bombing of that city during the war had harmed all the others. Preparations are being made to demolish the shell of the destroyed church.

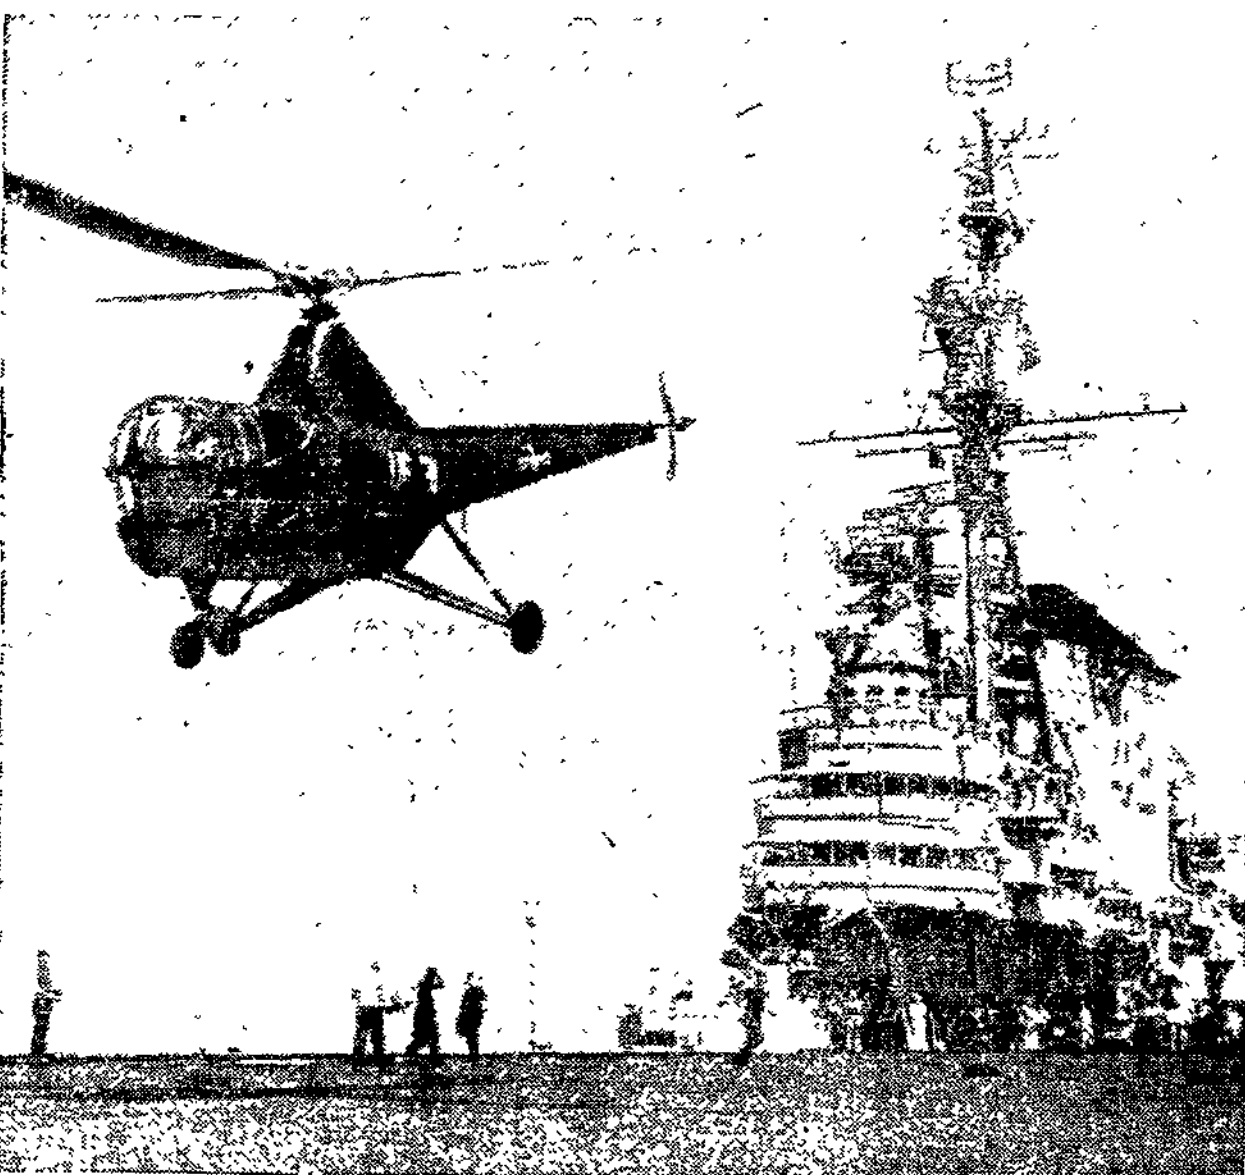

PRIZE WINNER—For the first time in the history of the White House News Photographers Association, in Washington, three first prizes, one third prize and the grand prize went to a single photographer, Frank Cancellare, top notch Washington cameraman for Acme Newspictures. One of his prize winners was this picture of a soldier and his girl in a romantic pose beneath the famed cherry blossoms around Washington's Tidal Basin.

TOGETHER AGAIN—M/Sgt. John D. Kent, of Fort Worth, Tex., has been reunited with his Italian bride in Milan, Italy. Kent met his wife in that country during the war, but they took their marriage vows last December by phone from their home towns.

TEACHING PAPA—As the one-millionth man to join the Expectant Father's Club, James Trammell gets a diapering lesson in Washington, with baby Dale Snowwater as a practical model.

TAKING OFF—This helicopter is taking off from the deck of the aircraft carrier U.S.S. Franklin Roosevelt as the Atlantic Fleet stages the Navy's largest post-war maneuvers in the Caribbean. Some 9000 Marines, 4000 Army troops and three Canadian Army platoons landed on Vieques Island, near Puerto Rico, against a well-trained "aggressor force."

WINDFALL—When Art Teets and Ward Vickers decided to take a two-year world cruise, they invited the public down to the pier in Wilmington, Calif. About 1500 people showed up with cans, sacks and boxes of food. They brought enough to stock the schooner California with supplies to last the entire crew of six for 400 days.

EARLY BEGINNERS—When the principal of a school in Osaka, Japan, tried to combat juvenile delinquency, he organized a music group. The children were told to bring musical instruments to school, and during the early rehearsals these toy xylophones became an important part of the orchestra. So good did the children become that they were voted financial aid.

PLAYING FOR WORK—This street musician, in Rome, Italy, displays a large sign with a request for employment. But he doesn't want a job as a musician. The lower sign explains that he'd prefer work as a mechanic.

DRAMATIC—Opera star Gladys Swarthout introduces this mantilla for evening wear. The sequined ebony net is embroidered with black tear drop crystals which fall over the forehead. A lace fan complements it.

NIGHT AND DAY—A British designer has created big sleeves that merge with a flattering neckline and full skirt for the dinner dress, left. The striped Yorkshire suiting in black and white receives interesting treatment and is effectively combined with a spotted orange blouse.

Hot Stove Baseball League Meeting To Be Held Tonight

Arrangements for distribution of Hot Stove Baseball League membership cards to boys interested in playing baseball this summer will be made at a meeting of adult leaders and other sports officials this evening at 8 o'clock in the Warren municipal building.

More than 100 boys in the 9 to 12 age bracket already have filled the registration coupon that has been printed for the past several years on the sports page of the Times-Mirror, and additional registrations are anticipated.

Plans call for operation of a league for boys 9 to 12, and an intermediate league for 12 to 15. It is likely that at least one team will be organized each loop from each ward of borough and from the North Penn-Venturetown, Starbuck Pleasant township districts.

Boys were reminded that they must have to be experts to sign for membership. An effort will be made to give every interested a chance to play on a team, where there is sufficient interest, more than one team will be organized in a ward or a district.

Tonight's meeting will be in charge of League President Charles Musante. It is expected that form and equipment committees will make their reports, and arrangements distributing membership cards will be completed.

Memberships for boys will cost 25 cents. Sponsor memberships for adults will be a minimum of one dollar, although some of the league members and some baseball-minded citizens are planning to give much more than the minimum.

It also is expected that arrangements will be made tonight for a big Hot Stove League rally for both the boys and the adult members. This is tentatively scheduled for Tuesday night, March 29, in the Warren Armory.

A cordial invitation to attend to tonight's meeting is extended to all sports-minded persons interested in making a fine baseball program available for boys.

Sawyer Says 1949 Is Year Of The Big 'If'

Clearwater, Fla., March 22—(AP)—Eddie Sawyer sees 1949 as "the year of the big if" in the national league with his Philadelphia Phillies prepared to spring a surprise.

As optimistic as a fellow can be who finished sixth last year, Manager Sawyer finds hope in the problems of others. The 37-year-old farm system graduate who took over the job of bossing the big club last July after Ben Chapman was replaced, expects no miracles. He does think improvement is to be expected.

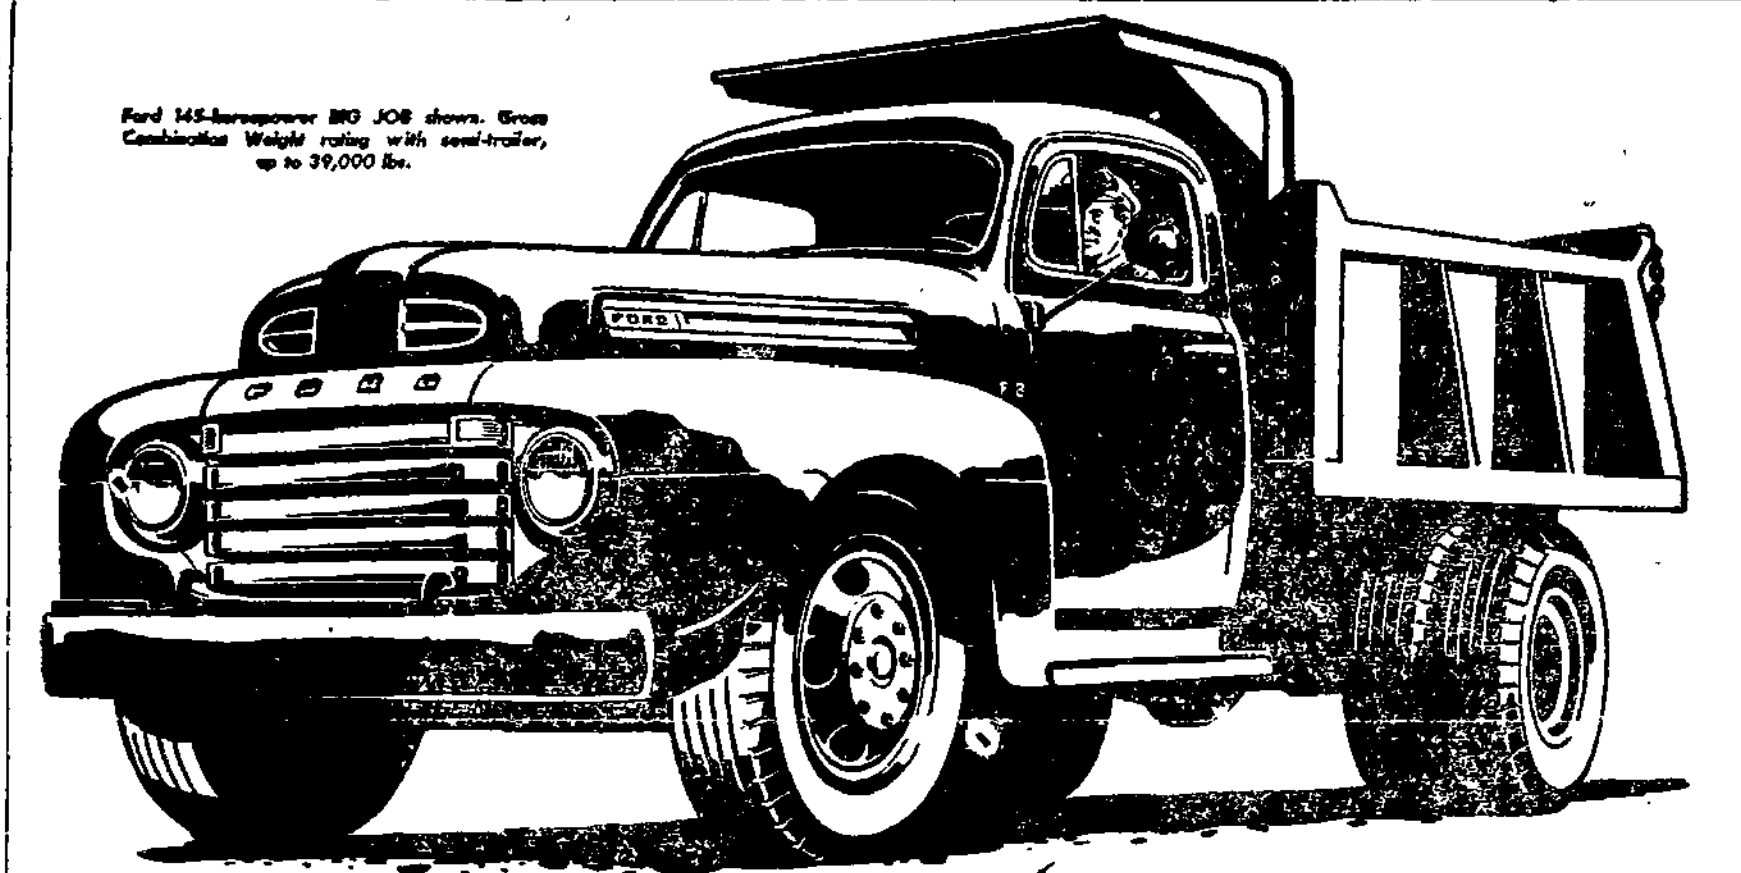

"I honestly expect a race in our league," said Sawyer. "Nobody is set for sure. Everybody has a big if."

"For the Cards it's if Kuroski and Marion can play a full season and if Musial can have another year like the last one. If Blackwell can pitch for Cincinnati. If the Giants get pitching. If the Reds get pitching. If the Cubs can come back for Boston."

"We have added power in Bill Nicholson and Eddie Waitkus. Sure, we gave up pitching in Dutch Leonard and Monk Dubiel. But Leonard is going on and Dubiel was a must for Chicago. He was their key man in the deal. Hank Borowy and Russ Meyer who came to us from the Cubs, are going to help."

"We'll do better than a lot of people think."

Sawyer knows as well as anybody that his kids must click if the Phils are to do better. After all, they were only two games out of the cellar and 2½ back of the pennant winning Boston Braves last October.

Hospital Quintet Goes To Franklin

Warren State Hospital basketball teams were handed a 47-39 setback by Franklin last night in a 4th round game of the Titusville CA's Gold Medal Independent tournament on the Titusville V.F.W.

The game was a nip-and-tuck affair all the way, but a flurry of goals in the closing two minutes clinched the decision for down river team.

The State Hospital five will try consolation honors in the tournament in a tilt at Titusville Wednesday night.

CAMP BRIEFS

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 22—(AP)—Bill McCahan's mound performance last night when the Philadelphia Athletics defeated Miami Beach 6-1 was good news to Connie Mack. He has been counting heavily on McCahan to better his 1948 record of four won and seven lost. Against the Florida International League club last night, Bill hurled three hitless innings and batted in the A's first run with a single.

Clearwater, Fla., March 22—(AP)—Bert Haas is giving Rookie "Buddy" Head Jones a run for the Philadelphia Phillies' third base spot. Against the Kansas City Blues of the American Association yesterday, Haas delivered two base hits in three trips to the plate as the Phils won 6-4. He also started a sixth inning double with the bases loaded and only one out.

San Bernardino, Calif., March 22—(AP)—Bob Mumcrief, former Cleveland Indian pitcher, was satisfied today he will help the Pittsburgh Pirates this season. So was Billy Meyer, Bucs manager, who saw Mumcrief do a fine job against the New York Giants yesterday. Mumcrief hurled the last two innings and faced only six men, retiring the last three on three consecutive pitches, as the Pirates won 7-5.

Kentucky To Meet Illinois Tonight

New York, March 22—(AP)—Kentucky and Illinois, two teams with a tremendous scoring punch, will clash at Madison Square Garden tonight for the eastern NCAA basketball title.

Their immediate aim will be to gain the right to test their strength against the nation's No. 1 collegiate defense in the championship game with Oklahoma A. and M., the western victor, at Seattle, Wash., Saturday night. The Aggies won out last Saturday in Kansas City.

The defending champion Wildcats and the Illini cracked the Garden's upset jinx and scored expected semi-final victories last night before a near-sellout crowd of 18,051.

Kentucky, rebounding from a slump that saw it bow to Chicago Loyola in the National Invitation last week, rolled over Villanova with a record-breaking 85-72 score.

Illinois' big nine champions staged a desperate spurt in the final minutes to turn back Yale, the Ivy League titlist, 71-67.

Players Rarely Broke Bats In Old Days, Says Krichell

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(NEA)—A young Yankee swung, and—crack!—went the bat.

"The bats of today are no good," said someone. "They're better than they ever were," cut in Hal Schumacher, the former Giant pitcher who manufactures them.

"Then why are 10 times more bats broken today than in the old days?" asked one of the older baseball writers.

"Because we took care of our bats," said Paul Krichell, chief of the New York Americans' scouts.

"Why I haven't seen a ballplayer bone a bat since Jay Kirk was hitting the ball from precinct to precinct for Joe McCarthy in Louisville.

"During my 17 years as a catcher, which stretched out until after World War I, players slept with their bats. They realized that bats with hits in them were their ham and eggs.

"If another player picked up your bat, you'd shout: 'Put that down! It's mine!'

"If a player broke your bat, he was your enemy for life.

"Players hardened their clubs by stropping them with big hambones and whatnot. Sun and rain affects the grain. We called it chipping it, and had all sorts of tools for keeping our weapons sharp.

"When the slightest fault appears in a bat now, if it is as much as discolored, the player simply orders a dozen new ones.

"Another thing you never see today is a player taping the handle of his bat." Foxy Forager Krichell went on. "That was common practice up to the early 1920's. Strips of tape served as a gauge as to where my hands should be. Tape gave you a firmer grip, or you believed it did, which was half the battle."

BASEBALL styles was the next subject.

"Carl Hubbell wore his pants long to cover his skinny legs, and that dreadful fashion was inaugurated," said Krichell.

Jimmy Foxx cut his sleeves off close to the shoulder to show off his blacksmith arms, and the first thing we knew we had the sleeveless ballplayer. Jeff Heath now shows the way to the boys with the big, fat arms.

"The worst thing a ballplayer, especially a pitcher, can do is play without sleeves," continued Jim Turner.

"You can repeat that," seconded Krichell. "Along with our pet bat, we slept with our arm in the sleeve of a red flannel shirt. A warm arm never becomes sore. That's why pitchers warm up."

"I always pitched in a woolen shirt with a near full-length sleeve," explained Milkman Turner, who coaches the 18 Yankee pitchers. "It absorbed perspiration, kept it off the wrist and hand, where it is annoying. It kept me warm on days when I wasn't sweating freely."

The trouble with most pitchers today is that they can't pitch fast enough to keep warm.

SPORTS ROUND-UP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, March 22—(AP)—A more-or-less confidential report from a baseball spy in the south says that Joe Dimaggio's injured heel is a lot worse than the Yankees let on. . . . Joe really is worried about it and may not be able to play until the season is well along. . . . Besides that, Charley Keller still has no zing in his swing. He's meeting the ball solidly, but it doesn't go anywhere.

Just to top it off, the report adds the Yankee players aren't taking too well to the Harris-Stengel managerial shift and O'Case is plumb out of character wearing a stern look and trying to prove he isn't a clown. . . . And, speaking of that managerial shift, the boys in California are guessing that Buckey Harris is getting about $25,000 per to manage San Diego. Not bad for a minor leaguer.

Brooks Damned

When the Dodgers played the Athletics the other day, the boys on the Brooklyn bench started saying A's Coach Jimmy Dykes with impertinent questions about what happened when he lost that managerial job in Hollywood. . . . Jimmy, an old hand at bench jockeying, took it just so long before he remembered the Brooks have a working agreement with Hollywood this year. . . . Then he silenced them for good by shouting: "You'd better learn all you can

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

MAKES SMALL SLAM WITHOUT AN ACE

Goldberg said it had been a long evening, and it was the last round. Getting average on this board would mean nothing, so when his partner supported his spades, Goldberg in the North plunged to six. He followed the same theory in redoubling. If he were set at six doubled, he might as well be set redoubled.

East had a choice of openings. The jack of spades could not be the right opening. He might make the ace of diamonds, but with only three hearts in his hand, it seemed more likely that he could make the ace of hearts.

But Goldberg of course trumped the ace of hearts in dummy, and let the king of clubs. West went up with the ace, which Goldberg trumped. Then he trumped another heart in dummy and led the queen of clubs, on which he discarded the six of diamonds from his hand.

The seven of spades from dummy was his next play. West won this trick with the ace of spades and returned a diamond—but it was too late. Goldberg trumped it, and made his amazing contract of six spades doubled and redoubled without an ace in either hand.

Record Number Of Auto Breakdowns Listed In 1948

Washington, D. C.—Old Man Winter, absent-mindedness and housing developments were factors in a record-breaking number of automobile breakdowns in 1948 when a total of 40,566,000 trouble calls were handled by the nation's garages, the American Automobile Association reported today. This was an increase of approximately 9 per cent over the 37,260,000 breakdowns estimated for 1947.

"In addition to the fact that there are a large number of ancient vehicles on the road," the A.A.A. said, "unusually severe weather conditions during the early months of last year resulted in a number of calls for help. On 1,349,000 occasions last year, forgetful motorists ran out of gasoline before they could get to the filling station. One of the most startling increases last year was the jump of 47 per cent in the number of motorists getting stuck in the snow, mud or sand. Of the 2,257,000 motorists who got stuck, quite a substantial proportion were those who had moved into new homes in localities with streets as yet unpaved and got mired in after the first big rainfall."

The A.A.A.'s annual estimates of motorists' mechanical woes are based on reports from 16,000 service stations, in the U. S. and Canada, under contract to render emergency aid to motor club members. Last year, said the report,

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

New York—(AP)—Uncle Sam is putting his trade rivals back on their feet and teaching them his own bag of tricks. He is daring them with "rebuild your factories with my dollars, learn my mass production methods—I can still beat you in the trading ring."

Some American producers are hoping the old gentleman isn't being too cocky.

Rarely, if ever before in history, has a nation purposely financed the revival of its industrial competitors. Not only are Marshall plan dollars putting England, France, Belgium, Italy back into the world trade scramble, but to some extent American dollars are reviving the competitive forces of Japan and Germany.

And, right now, the first of a series of European industrial visitors are here, touring production centers to learn how we produce more goods than anyone else can. They are expected to teach mass production efficiency to their own people.

We are also talking of spreading our technical skills and advanced industrial tools throughout the underdeveloped areas of the globe. It is one of history's most generous gestures.

But Uncle Sam's motives aren't unmixed altruism.

For one thing, his exports are falling off. He wants his neighbors to regain their financial health so they can pay for more of his goods.

For another, he wants them strong and friendly, so they will be on his side, effectively—just in case.

And he believes that the more the world exchanges its goods the better. A prosperous world is less apt to get into fights, he thinks, and he does better when at peace than when at war.

However, trade rivalries have caused wars, too. And American businessmen are becoming increasingly critical of foreign competition. They note a change in the foreign trade picture. The demand for our primary goods—wheat, coal, cotton and the like—is falling. We are sending abroad more productive tools to build rival factories—which of course, is exactly what we should be doing under the Marshall Plan.

We are importing less raw materials for our own factories than last year. As prices fall here, other countries can get more for their raw material exports in the soft currency countries. Also we are importing more manufactured products, a clear indication that our campaign to get European factories to producing again is bearing fruit.

News Of Interest to High School Graduates

Good news for Warren area high school graduates, was contained in a special announcement today by Airman 1/CL Donald F. Miller, station commander of the U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Service in the Post Office building in Warren. Effective at once, enlistments for the United States Air Force for twelve months duty, will be accepted from eighteen year old male citizens. Airman Miller stated that a large number of young men of this age these clubs spent $5,222,458 in treating their members from one difficulty or another.

Flat tires continued to be the major cause of breakdown during the year, with a total of 8,660,000, the A.A.A. report said. However, batteries were almost as important a source of annoyance, accounting for 8,012,000 trouble calls, up 13 per cent from the year before. Other highlights from the report were:

1. Traffic smashups were reflected in the fact that tow trucks and wrecker equipment were dispatched 7,222,000 times to the rescue of cars with serious trouble that could not be repaired on the roadside.
2. There were 4,389,000 cases of ignition trouble, up 7 per cent from 1947, and 3,323,000 complaints of carburetor trouble, up 32 per cent.
3. The most significant decline in breakdown causes was starter trouble which dropped 23 per cent to 640,000 calls; increased availability of replacement starters may have accounted in part for this decrease.
4. Lock and key service, with 677,000 calls, was up by 43 per cent over the year before; while
5. The average motorist called for help 1.2 times during the year; thus the chances that a motorist will get through twelve months without a breakdown are a little less than even.
